

Proceedings of an International Conference in Mexico, February 27-28, 2020

Landscape, Monuments, Arts, and Rituals Out of Eurasia in Bio-Cultural Perspectives

Edited by Naoko Matsumoto, Saburo Sugiyama
and Claudia Garcia-Des Lauriers

OUT OF EURASIA

Grant-in-Aid for Scientific Research on Innovative Areas (2019-2023)

Integrative Human Historical Science of “Out of Eurasia”
Exploring the Mechanisms of the Development of Civilization

---

---

Grant-in-Aid for Scientific Research on Innovative Areas (2019–2023)
Integrative Human Historical Science of “Out of Eurasia”
Exploring the Mechanisms of the Development of Civilization

---

---

Proceedings of an International Conference in Mexico,
February 27-28, 2020

Landscape, Monuments, Arts, and Rituals
Out of Eurasia in Bio-Cultural Perspectives

Edited by
Naoko Matsumoto
Saburo Sugiyama
Claudia Garcia-Des Lauriers

Grant-in-Aid for Scientific Research on Innovative Areas (2019–2023) JP19H05731

Integrative Human Historical Science of “Out of Eurasia”

Exploring the Mechanisms of the Development of Civilization

<http://out-of-eurasia.jp>

ISBN: 978-4-910223-04-9 (Print edition)

978-4-910223-05-6 (Online edition)

Editors: Naoko Matsumoto (Okayama University)

Saburo Sugiyama (Arizona State University / Okayama University)

Claudia Garcia-Des Lauriers (California State Polytechnic University, Pomona)

Publishing Office

Research Institute for the Dynamics of Civilizations

Okayama University

3-1-1 Tsushima-naka, Kita-ku, Okayama, 700-8530, JAPAN

Phone +81-(0)86-251-7442

CONTENTS

Conference Participants	vii
Figure List	ix
Map List	xiv
Table List	xiv

Part I: The “Out of Eurasia” Project: Objectives and Strategies of Transdisciplinary Studies

Introduction

The “Out of Eurasia” Project: Objectives and Strategies of Transdisciplinary Studies Naoko Matsumoto and Saburo Sugiyama	3
1 Outline of the Out of Eurasia Project Naoko Matsumoto	7
2 Introduction to the “Out of Eurasia” Project: Theoretical Perspectives of Mesoamerican Landscape, Monument, and (Sacrificial) Ritual Studies Saburo Sugiyama	15
3 Monuments, Art and Social Change in the Formative Andes: Case Study in Tembladera Region, Middle Jequetepeque Valley, Northern Peru Eisei Tsurumi	33
4 LiDAR Mapping of the Tsukuriyama Kofun Group: Research History of Three-Dimensional Surveys Jun Mitsumoto	45
5 Visualization of Archaeological Structure Data with Astronomical Objects Kazuhiro Sekiguchi	53
6 Toward a Comparative Analysis of the Facial and Bodily Representation of Anthropomorphic Artifacts Naoko Matsumoto	63
7 Warfare, Art, and Monument in the Process of Social Complexity of the Prehistoric Japanese Archipelago Takehiko Matsugi	71

8	“Tribe” or “Chiefdom”? Lost Possibilities of Ainu Society and Influences from Outside Worlds Hideyuki Ōnishi	81
9	Pastoralism of Camelids and the Emergence of Political Power in the Northern Peruvian Andes: A Discussion Featuring Archeology from the Viewpoint of Ethnography Tetsuya Inamura	95
10	Evolution of the Human Cognitive System and Human Civilizations Viewed as Phase Transitions of the Primate Brain’s Neurobiological Mechanisms Rafael Vieira Bretas, Yumiko Yamazaki and Atsushi Iriki	113
11	Potential Roles of the Gut-Brain Axis in the Cognitive Evolution of Primates Yumiko Yamazaki and Atsushi Iriki	123
12	Drawing Tests to Evaluate the Cognitive Traits of People from Different Backgrounds Aya Saito	135
13	A Craniofacial and Postcranial Survey of North and South American Inhabitants from the Perspective of Possible Old World Ancestors Noriko Seguchi and Conrad B. Quintyn	141
Part II: Landscape, Monuments, Arts, and Rituals in Bio-Cultural Perspectives in Mesoamerica
Introduction
	Mesoamerican Landscape, Monuments, and Rituals in Bio-Cultural Perspectives Saburo Sugiyama and Claudia García-Des Lauriers	157
14	The Possibility of Pacific Rim Origins for New World Ancestral Populations Matthew Des Lauriers, Antonio Porcayo-Michelini, and Loren G. Davis	165
15	The Mesoamerican Conception of the Sacred Mountain, its Projections and Architectural Manifestations Alfredo López Austin	179
16	Early Olmec Landscape Urbanism Ann Cyphers	191

17	Monumentality, Elite Tombs, and Domestic Memories: Understanding Social Formation at Monte Albán Nelly M. Robles García	203
18	Examining the Symbolic Constructs of Cholula's Great Pyramid Gabriela Uruñuela Ladrón de Guevara and Patricia Plunket Nagoda	217
19	Spatial, Temporal, and Symbolic Significance of the Myths Recreated in the Underworld and in the Space of the Citadel in Teotihuacan Sergio Gómez Chavez and Julie Gazzola	233
20	Ritual Places, Pilgrimage, and Religion in Mesoamerica Joel W. Palka	247
21	Reconfiguring Maya Urbanism at the Transition to the Postclassic: Reimagining Teotihuacan at Chichen Itza Travis W. Stanton, Karl A. Taube, José Osorio León, Francisco Pérez Ruíz, and María Rocio González de la Mata	263
22	Performance, Politics, and Monuments in the Ancient Maya Plazas of El Palmar Kenichiro Tsukamoto	275
23	The Emergence of Elite Tombs in the Southern Maya Area Akira Ichikawa	285
24	Cerro Bernal, Chiapas as an Embodiment of a Mesoamerican Sacred Mountain Claudia Garcia-Des Lauriers	297
25	Indigenous American Ritual Bone Treatment Miguel Astor-Aguilera	307

Proceedings of an International Conference in Mexico, February 27–28, 2020

Landscape, Monuments, Arts, and Rituals

Out of Eurasia in Bio-Cultural Perspectives

List of Participants

Miguel Astor-Aguilera	SHPRS Religious Studies Faculty, Arizona State University
Yuta Chiba	Cultural Symbiosis Research Institute, Aichi Prefectural University
Ann Cyphers	Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México
Matthew Des Lauriers	Department of Anthropology, California State University, San Bernardino
Claudia Garcia-Des Lauriers	Department of Geography and Anthropology, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
Julie Gazzola	Dirección de Estudios Arqueológicos, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia
Sergio Gómez Chávez	Zona arqueológica de Teotihuacán, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia
Akira Ichikawa	Research Center for Cultural Heritage and Texts, Nagoya University
Naotoshi Ichiki	Faculty of Letters, Ritsumeikan University
Tetsuya Inamura	Faculty of Liberal Arts, The Open University of Japan
Shinsaku Inomata	Institute of Tropical Medicine, Nagasaki University
Yukitaka Inoue Okubo	School of International Communication, Senshu University
Atsushi Iriki	RIKEN (The Institute of Physical and Chemical Research)
Takumi Ishii	National Museum of Japanese History
Alan Jaime	Department of Spanish and Latin American Studies, Nanzan University
Yumi Kimura	Graduate School of Human Sciences, Osaka University
Kei Komachiya	Faculty of Art, Sapporo Otani University
Alfredo López Austin	Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México
Takehiko Matsugi	National Museum of Japanese History
Naoko Matsumoto	Research Institute for the Dynamics of Civilizations, Okayama University
Jun Mitsumoto	Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Okayama University
Hideyuki Ōnishi	Department of Social System Studies, Doshisha Women's College of Liberal Arts
Kayo Onozuka	Institute of Philosophy and Human Values, Kyoto University of the Arts
Joel W. Palka	School of Human Evolution and Social Change (SHESC), Arizona State University
Patricia Plunket	Departamento de Antropología, Universidad de las Américas Puebla (Retired)
Rogelio Rivero Chong	Zona Arqueológica de Teotihuacan, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia
Nelly M. Robles García	Centro Oaxaca, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia
Aya Saito	Institute of Philosophy and Human Values, Kyoto University of the Arts

Ken'ichi Sasaki School of Arts and Letters, Meiji University
Etsuo Sato Faculty of Contemporary Society, Toyama University of International Studies
Noriko Seguchi Department of Environmental Changes, Kyushu University
Kazuhiro Sekiguchi National Astronomical Observatory of Japan Astronomy & Astrophysics
Travis W. Stanton Department of Anthropology, University of California, Riverside
Saburo Sugiyama SHEEC, Arizona State University / RIDC, Okayama University
Kenichiro Tsukamoto Department of Anthropology, University of California, Riverside / Kyoto University of Foreign Studies / RIDC, Okayama University

Asami Tsukuda Department of Social System Studies, Doshisha Women's College of Liberal Arts
Eisei Tsurumi University Museum, The University of Tokyo
Yoshifumi Ueno National Museum of Japanese History, Japanese Archaeology
Gabriela Uruñuela Departamento de Antropología, Universidad de las Américas Puebla (Retired)
Taro Yamamoto Institute of Tropical Medicine, Nagasaki University
Yumiko Yamazaki RIKEN (The Institute of Physical and Chemical Research)

Figures

Part I.1.	Group Photo of participants.	3
Part I.2.	Flyer of “Foro de Arqueología Cognitiva: Monumentos, Arte, y Cuerpo Humano, afuera de Eurasia. Monumentos y tumbas como lugar de memoria social”.	4
1.1.	Map showing the regions to be studied with our research questions.	10
1.2.	Model of the mutual permeation of matter and mind as mediated by the body.	12
2.1.	General plan of Mexico and Central America with locations of sites mentioned in the text.	19
2.2.	Zoo-plant reservation at Ixtapalapa in the Valley of Mexico (Florentine Codex).	22
2.3.	Central Plaza of Monte Albán, viewed from the North Platform toward the south.	23
2.4.	View of the Moon Pyramid from the central axis of the Avenue of the Dead toward the north at Teotihuacan.	24
2.5.	LiDAR map of the central section of the ancient city of Teotihuacan, Mexico.	25
2.6.	Plan of Burial 6 found tri-dimensionally near the center of Building 4.	27
2.7.	The Great Temple with twin temple and a platform with rack for decapitated heads.	28
2.8.	The first platform of the façade of the Feathered Serpent Pyramid at Teotihuacan.	29
2.9.	AutoCAD drawing of the Sun Pyramid, Teotihuacan, with location of straight research tunnels. and undulating ancient tunnel discovered under the Sun Pyramid.	30
3.1.	The Central Andes and the Research Area.	37
3.2.	Civic-ceremonial center sites of the Initial Period in the Middle Jequetepeque Valley, Peru.	38
3.3.	Monumental buildings of the Initial Period in Hamacas Plain and Mosquito Plain.	38
4.1.	Bird's-eye view of Tsukuriyama Kofun.	46
4.2.	Map of the area surrounding the Tsukuriyama Kofun Group.	47
4.3.	Reconstruction of the surrounding moat of Tsukuriyama Kofun.	48
5.1.	Screenshot of StellaNavigator.	55
5.2.	Screenshot of Mitaka.	57
5.3.	Screenshot of Stellarium.	58
5.4.	Screenshot of a sample Stellarium simulation.	59
6.1.	Anthropomorphic artifact at the nexus of two cognitive domains.	65
6.2.	The result of masculine-feminine and human-nonhuman impressions of the Jōmon figurine faces.	67
6.3.	Figurine from Aidanikumahara site, Shiga Prefecture. Incipient Jōmon Period (c. 11,000 cal. BC).	68
6.4.	An example of highly stylized Jōmon figurine from the Hirohata shell midden, Ibaraki Prefecture.	69
7.1.	Illustration of pottery from Sasayama site, Niigata prefecture.	73
7.2.	Classification matrix of monuments.	74
7.3.	Transformation of burial mounds from the Late Yayoi to Early Kofun period.	76
7.4.	Large number of armor and weapons offered in an elite burial. Nonaka mounded tomb, Osaka Prefecture.	78

8.1.	Original settlement areas of the Ainu.	82
8.2.	Territory and resource management in Ainu society.	84
8.3.	Diagram representing a river valley as the territory of a river group and its ecological zones.	85
8.4.	Ainu subsistence activities and resource management of wide-ranging land.	85
8.5.	Sō-daishō and their sphere of influence in Shakushain's revolt.	86
8.6.	The four stages of social development as defined by Elman Service.	87
9.1.	Map of Puica district, La Unión county, Arequipa.	99
9.2.	Alpacas grazing in a bofedal (wetland).	100
9.3.	Llama caravan A carguero (leader llama) goes first and a herder is going behind.	100
9.4.	Map of an estancia. (Figure.4A Main comicile of the estancia Figure.4B Sub domicile of the estancia).	101
9.5.	Llamas on a terraced field, pasturing maize after harvesting during the herders are staying in Puica village for the transportation of crops.	102
9.6.	The ritual of Puqllay, blessing three new born alpacas with uña llamita and heart of an alpaca sacrificed in a clayware.	104
10.1.	Cranial capacity of hominids and lithic technology.	114
10.2.	Evolution of the nervous system.	116
10.3.	Triadic niche construction feedback loop.	117
10.4.	Phase transitions of neuro-/brain capacity.	118
11.1.	Foraging is the Key Behavior at the Interface between the Host and the Environment.	125
11.2.	Results of Several Treatments for Chronic Diarrhoea.	127
11.3.	Individual Distribution of Microbiota Similarity in our Colony Using the Bray-Curtis Index.	128
12.1.	Drawing Task Using Incomplete Facial Stimuli in Chimpanzees and Human Children.	136
12.2.	Inverted face drawn by a child.	137
12.3.	Examples of the drawing of children (black) on the rotated/conflict stimuli.	138
12.4.	A typical face drawing.	139
12.5.	"Tadpole man".	139
13.1.	Craniometric analysis: Prehistoric East Asian samples, Yayoi agriculturalists of Japan and Jōmon of Japan including the Paleoamerican of Lagoa Santa and Archaic New World series.	145
13.2.	The NJ tree based on craniofacial metric analysis. The prehistoric Jōmon of Japan and the living Ainu, clearly resemble the New World populations.	146
13.3.	The NJ-tree based on craniometric analysis (Brace et al., 2014) including the Jōmon, Paleoamericans-9400 years old Kennewick, and 10,000-9,000 years old Lagoa Santa.	146
13.4.	Boxplots of Z scores of all regional variation in brachial index, crural index, the ratio of FHB to FemL, the ratio of FHB to lower limb length, and body mass.	147
13.5.	Principal components plot of limb proportions, body proportions, and body mass.	149

Part II.1.	Ancient Mesoamerican Centers Cited.	163
14.1.	One of the most well-preserved shell fishhooks from Isla Cedros, Baja California.	169
14.2.	Common projectile point forms from Terminal Pleistocene sites on Isla Cedros, Baja California.	170
14.3.	Diagnostic unifacial tool (in early use-life stage) from Terminal Pleistocene sites on Isla Cedros.	170
14.4.	Typical flaked shell tool from Terminal Pleistocene contexts on Isla Cedros.	170
15.1.	Map of Mesoamerica.	182
15.2.	Schematic of the Sacred Mountain.	183
15.3.	The representations of Malinalli.	183
15.4.	Quincunx.	184
15.5.	Olmec figures on ritual celts with sacred mountain motifs.	184
15.6.	Three Classic Maya examples and one from Postclassic Central Mexico representing the sacred tree as a cruciform maize plant.	185
15.7.	Representations of the lower maw of the sacred mountain cave.	185
15.8.	Maya sculpture of Altún Ha, Belize.	186
15.9.	Detail of Tepantitla mural, Teotihuacan.	186
15.10.	Two anthropomorphic representations from the Codex Cospi.	186
15.11.	Tlaloc and Sacred Mountain . Codex Vaticano Latino 3738, fol. 48v.	187
15.12.	Images of the god Tepeyólotl.	187
15.13.	Schematic projection of the cosmic tree of the four corners forming the columns that sustain the sky.	187
16.1.	Map of the southern Gulf Coast of Mexico.	192
16.2.	The San Lorenzo Island.	192
16.3.	Seasonal base camps.	193
16.4.	The Great Plateau was the highest sector of the San Lorenzo Island.	196
16.5.	Monument 1 from San Lorenzo.	197
16.6.	Monument 14 from San Lorenzo.	197
16.7.	Altar 4 from La Venta.	197
17.1.	Map of the Central Valleys of Oaxaca, Mexico. Location of Atzompa in relation to Monte Albán.	205
17.2.	Topographic map of the Great Plaza at Monte Albán, Oaxaca, Mexico.	205
17.3.	Monte Albán archaeological map.	206
17.4.	Architectural plans of Residences Casa del Sur and Casa de los Altares at Atzompa, Oaxaca, Mexico.	207
17.5.	The Great Plaza at Monte Albán, Oaxaca, Mexico. View from South to North.	208
17.6.	Effigy vessel of Cocijo, the Monte Albán's Rain God, excavated at Atzompa, Oaxaca, Mexico.	208
17.7.	Monumental Jaguar effigy. A ceramic masterpiece from Monte Albán, Oaxaca, Mexico.	209
17.8.	The Bat God, a jade and sea-shell assembled piece from Monte Albán, Oaxaca, México.	209
17.9A.	Architectural profile of the Tomb 242 mound and interior chambers from Atzompa, Oaxaca, México.	211
17.9B.	The 242 funerary mound in relation to the residence Casa de los Altares at Atzompa, Oaxaca, México.	211

17.10A.	Interior of the Tomb 242. Chamber 1 stone-constructed walls and vaulted roof. Atzompa, Oaxaca, Mexico.	212
17.10B.	Interior of the Tomb 242. Chamber 2 mural paintings on ballgame motifs. Atzompa, Oaxaca, Mexico.	212
17.11.	Jaguar-Serpent-Eagle effigy vessel from Atzompa, Oaxaca, Mexico.	213
17.12.	The funerary Eight-Earthquake effigy vessel, excavated at Chamber 3, Tomb 242, from Atzompa, Oaxaca, Mexico.	213
18.1.	Location of Cholula in Puebla, Mexico.	219
18.2.	Aerial view from the south of the Tlachihualtépetl.	219
18.3.	Isometric northwest view of the central module's sequence.	223
18.4.	Los Chapulines.	224
18.5.	Detail of the Bebedores Mural.	224
18.6.	Ornamentation on the buildings of the pyramidal complex's south side.	225
18.7.	The Great Pyramid according to Bandelier.	225
18.8.	South side of the Tlachihualtépetl, with corresponding plan of the Patio of the Altars.	226
18.9.	Plumed serpents at the Tlachihualtépetl.	228
18.10.	The Tlachihualtépetl crowned by the catholic temple of the "Virgen de los Remedios".	228
19.1.	View of the Citadel Complex.	236
19.2.	View of the Feathered Serpent Pyramid.	237
19.3.	View of the southeast corner of what we suppose is a ballcourt. Photo S. Gómez.	240
19.4.	View in situ of the two green sculptures. Offering 46.	241
19.5.	View of the flooded Citadel square. Photo J. Gazzola.	242
20.1.	Map of Mesoamerica and some sites mentioned in the text.	249
20.2.	Cave and sink hole (cenote) entrance near a shrine at the San Gervasio site, Cozumel, Mexico.	250
20.3.	Pyramid of the Moon and shrines at the end of the Way of the Dead at Teotihuacan, Mexico.	251
20.4.	Plaza and main pyramid with a Catholic church on the summit at Cholula, Mexico.	251
20.5.	Lacandon Maya man rowing to a mountain shrine at Lake Mensabak, Chiapas, Mexico.	252
20.6.	The Mirador Mountain shrine at Lake Mensabak, Chiapas, Mexico.	253
20.7.	Map of the terraces, shrines, and temple complex near a vertical cave entrance on the summit of the Mirador Mountain at Lake Mensabak, Chiapas, Mexico.	254
20.8.	Hilltop temple adjacent to the cliff of a sinkhole, the Blue Cenote (right), at Chinkultic, Chiapas.	256
21.1.	DEM/Hillshade image of Chichen Itza.	264
21.2.	DEM/Hillshade image of the Great Terrace of Chichen Itza.	265
21.3.	Photos of the possible floral around between the Temple of the Warriors and the Upper Temple of the Jaguars.	266
21.4.	Line drawing of the Ciudadela at Teotihuacan.	267

21.5.	Line drawing of a monument fragment.	268
22.1.	Map representing the location of El Palmar and sites mentioned in the text.	279
22.2.	Map of El Palmar, showing the location of the Main Group and Guzmán Group.	279
22.3.	Map of Royal Palace with the location of carved monuments.	280
22.4.	Stela 8, El Palmar.	280
23.1.	Map of Southern Maya Area.	287
23.2.	Burial samples.	288
23.3.	Diachronic change of size of grave.	290
23.4.	Correlation between grave form and limited access goods in Southern Maya Area.	292
23.5.	Quantity of kinds of grave goods in the Maya Lowlands sites.	293
24.1.	Map of Los Horcones, Chiapas.	298
24.2.	Photo of Cerro Bernal as seen from La Polka, Chiapas.	298
24.3.	Stele 3, Los Horcones.	303
24.4.	Photo of waterfall, Cerro Bernal, Chiapas.	303
25.1.	Laud Codex [44]: Human Vital Essences.	309
25.2.	Boturini Codex [20]: Communicating Huitzilopochtli Bundle.	309
25.3.	Tikal Altar 5: Exhumed Skull and Long Bones.	309
25.4.	Zouche-Nuttall Codex [44]: Lady Nine-Grass Skeletal Bundle.	310
25.5.	Quintana Roo Maya Human Bone Exhumation. Photograph by the Author.	311
25.6.	Maya Burned Skeleton Bundle. Photograph by the Author.	311
25.7.	Coixtlahuaca, Mexico, Bundle. Photograph by the Author.	312
25.8.	Monte Albán “Danzante”. Photograph by the Author.	314
25.9.	Zouche-Nuttall Codex [82]: Cremation Ritual.	314
25.10.	Piled-Up Maya Femurs and Skulls. Photograph by the Author.	316

Maps

Map 14.1.	Some of the archaeological sites or geographic locations mentioned in the text.	167
	(1) Ryukyu Archipelago, Japan; (2) East Timor sites; (3) New Ireland;
	(4) Isla Cedros, Baja California, México; (5) La Paz region sites, México;
	(6) Morro Colorado, Chile; (7) Cooper's Ferry, Idaho, USA; (8) Monte Verde, Chile.
Map 14.2.	Isla Cedros, Baja California, México.	168
Map 14.3.	The Northeastern Pacific Rim at approximately 12,000 CalBP.	174

Tables

Table 4.1.	Digital measurements of the Tsukuriyama Kofun Group (from fiscal 2005 to fiscal 2009).	49
Table 23.1.	Burial samples in this study.	289
Table 23.2.	Correlations between grave form and kinds of graves furniture.	291